

Arthur the Hedgehog is looking for a new home for Autumn and Winter.

This is when he goes for a long sleep call hibernation.

Arthur thought he would try this castle as a home to hibernate.

Do you think a castle is a good place for a hedgehog to hibernate?

He managed to find some food to eat but is that good for a hedgehog's tummy?

I'm not sure this is a good place to sleep, do you?

This place is warm but is it a bed
for a hedgehog?

Arthur met Glenn at the castle who told him that the boys and girls in preschool would help Arthur find a good place to hibernate for the winter.
